

Wide Bay Hospital and Health Service

Beachside living, rewarding careers. Hervey Bay has it all.

Resident Medical Officers

Dr Ming Jun Low and Dr Venis Lum

"As a couple, when looking for an internship, joint employment was a priority for us, and Hervey Bay Hospital exceeded our expectations right from the start. The administration was incredibly supportive and understanding, ensuring a seamless transition for us into both the hospital and the country.

The regional charm of Hervey Bay is undeniable, everyone has been incredibly nice and welcoming - we've found great connections here.

When it comes to work, the support for junior doctors at Hervey Bay Hospital has been exceptional. With protected teaching hours and ample opportunities for learning, we've felt incredibly supported in our roles. Plus, the emphasis on work-life balance means we've been able to enjoy leisurely strolls along the beach after work and fishing on weekends!"

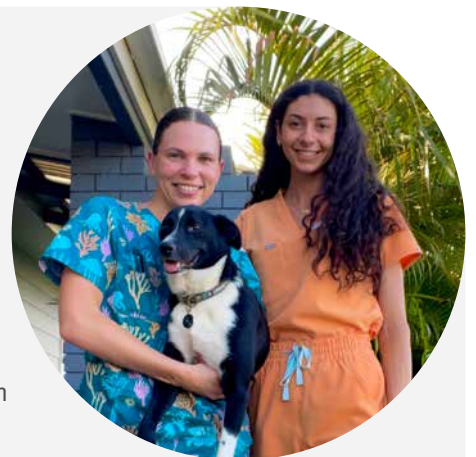

Interns

Dr Shaylee Poole, University of Wollongong graduate and Dr Ashley Abou-Akl, University of Queensland graduate

"From the moment we arrived, everyone at Hervey Bay Hospital has been so welcoming and supportive, which is just what we need when starting our first real doctor job!

One of the big drawcards is that our preferences for rotations were really taken into consideration, and we were informed of our rotation plan early, which made it really easy to 'seal the deal' to come here. The location and coastal living was an added advantage.

From a learning and training perspective, so far our experiences have been amazing. There have been so many complex cases, and we're able to be really hands on in the management of these, with exceptional supervision and guidance from our seniors. We're looking forward to what's ahead and hope to see you join us in 2026!"
